I haven't heard from his staff - unless they've called snd the message hasn't gotten to ms. But I do meet with him for a bit tomorrow morning here in Juneau. And it'll be interesting to hesr what he says to laggiss in tomorrow's (?) legislative updats. Our DC office has encouraged his staff to keep him fully informed on AGIA so he doesn't go on s rsmpage based on misinformation.

Had a good mtg with Shall CEO this evening. They're excited to be in Ak. They hit arctic villages this week, the CEO and his wife.

Hey on another note...I hear there's movement on your anergy coordinator. You probably know more than I, but sounds like a firs was lit lsst wesk and Privileged d's name may be forwarded. I only hope he's still willing to serva. Waiting to see something official before I uncross my fingers. He's axtremaly well spoken of in Fbx. Added for what its worth, Jim Posey stopped by saying he'd be excellent for the state...said the only folks who don't like him are MEA but with that exception is respected across the board in the utility world.

'govpalin@alaska.gov'; 'gov.sarah@yahoo.com' FW: Town Hall Meeting Summary

Governor,

Here is a summary on the town hall meetings. As you are aware, we have scheduled 16 AGIA town hall meetings throughout Alaska (I've attached the meeting schedule end team assignments). The meetings are not a formal public comment forum, but will contain a question and answer session and we are providing addressed, postage-paid comment forms for the public to fill out and mail in their formal comments.

The first meeting is tonight in Palmer, followed by the Anchorage meeting tomorrow night.

The meetings will be facilitated by a gasline team member. Their role is two-fold:

- 1) Introduce the meetings and guidelines no public testimony will be taken, but comment forms are available; and we cannot discuss the merits of the evaluation; and
- 2) Field questions from the eudience for the team members at the end of the presentation. Because we are still in the evaluation process, we cannot answer questions that go to the merits of the evaluation and we are not promoting TransCanada's application. Rather we are informing the public of where we are in the process and encouraging them to comment on the complete application. The facilitator will direct questions that go to the merits of the application to submit their comment on the pre-paid comment forms provided.

The formal presentations will be given by Tom, Pat or myself, end will provide an overview of:

- 1) Why AGIA is important a review of why SGDA failed, core principles of AGIA (jobs and gas for Alaskans, open access pipeline, etc.) and Conoco's alternative to AGIA;
- 2) AGIA application and completeness processes;
- TransCanada's application, including preliminary timeline;
- 4) AGIA evaluation process, including the administration's commitment to analyze LNG options;
- 5) Next steps incorporation of public comments and the Commissioners' determination;
- 6) Ways the public can comment on TransCanada's application; and
- 7) Question and answer period.

All gasline team members traveling for the town halls received a binder full of AGIA information. The binders are not for public distribution - they are for the gesline team members only. That said, the vast majority of what is in the binder is public information. And the purpose of the binder is so the team knows what is already out in the public erena - questions that can be answered with information in the binder can be addressed during the town halls.

The public was notified of the town hall meetings by the following:

- 1) Public mailing to AGIA mail list (contains state and federal legislators, Native groups and leaders, mayors, municipalities, postmasters, libraries and LIO offices;
- 2) Display ads in local newspapers;
- 3) Posted on AGIA web-site
- 4) Flyers mailed to all locations for posting throughout the community
- 5) PSA's sent to media all town hall communities
- 6) Governor's press release and newsletter

Additionally, beyond those meetings listed on the attached schedule, we have recently received requests for town hall meetings in Glennallen and Tok. The Glennallen meeting has just been scheduled for March 3, likely from 6-8 (pending confirmation). We are still working on scheduling the Tok meeting.

Please let me know if you have any questions or want more information.

Marty
